A MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY
WASHINGTON

May 5, 1942

TO THE PEOPLE OF WEST VIRGINIA:

This week a new campaign for the sale of War Bonds and Savings Stamps is under way throughout the Nation. It is the War Bond Quota Campaign.

It is urgently necessary that you double the rate at which you are now buying War Bonds and Stamps. This will mean the sale direct to individual Americans of War Bonds and Stamps to the amount of not less than one billion dollars every month.

One billion dollars a month is the National quota. It is equal to one-tenth the combined incomes of all Americans.

This money is needed to buy the tools of war for your fighting forces. It will not pay for all of them. Our war expenditures now are at the rate of about FOUR BILLIONS a month, and they are growing daily. We can obtain dollars a month direct from the people will make all-out production possible. Without it we cannot do our best; without it we cannot put forth our full effort.

It is desperately needed for another reason. We can't fight a war and at the same time live and spend as usual. There are not enough goods to go around — the things we buy with money. If we go on spending as the 1941 scale, we'll be robbing the fighting men to add to our own discomforts. We'll be driving up the cost of living for all of us. We'll be imposing dire hardships on our neighbors.

What is asked of you is ten per cent of your earnings — a little for Liberty. It is not a tax; it is not even a contribution; it is a loan at interest, for your use and protection later.

Your Government asks you to cut down your expenditures, TO SAVE — your boys on the fighting line and in the training camps, through your Government, ask you to save so that they may have what they need to win. THOSE MEN for whom America asks you to save; to SAVE TO WIN THE WAR; to buy War Bonds and Stamps to not less than ten per cent of your income.

In Liberty with 117 In Democracy worth 117 In America worth 117
I think I know your answer.

Sincerely,
H. Morgenthau Jr.

The above letter was sent to this newspaper by Secretary Morgenthau in Washington. We publish it in the interest of the War Bond Quota Campaign and earnestly recommend that all our readers do their share in the tremendous job ahead of financing the War effort.

Advice Given to Biedcle Riders

Bicycle riders are subject to the regulations, responsibilities and privileges of motor vehicle drivers, Colonel M. S. Battle, director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, said today as he announced that cyclists must observe the same traffic laws that govern motor vehicles.

Under Section 51 of the Motor Vehicle Code, the director said, the law states: "Every person riding a bicycle or an animal upon a roadway and every person driving any animal shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter applicable to the driver of a vehicle. . . ."

"Bicycle riders must observe the laws pertaining to motor vehicles, and not to pedestrians," the director pointed out. "Cyclists must ride on the right-hand side of the road because then their movement in traffic, particularly at intersections, is more natural and less confusing to motor vehicle drivers.

"It is possible for a motorist to adjust his speed to that of the bicycle and wait for a safe time to pass if they are moving in the same direction. By so doing, the cyclist is not forced to get off the paved section of the road which may sometimes be prevented by the presence of a guard rail or other obstacles."

Colonel Battle said bicycle traffic in Virginia is increasing daily. Last year there were 34 persons killed in bicycle-motor accidents and 365 injured. Twenty-six of the 34 fatal accidents occurred in rural areas.

Six suggestions for bicyclists were listed by Colonel Battle. They are:

1. Ride on the right-hand side of the highway and observe all traffic lights and signs.
2. Give hand signals for each turn.
3. Ride with a white front light and a red rear light or an approved reflector at night.
4. Avoid weaving in traffic. Ride in a straight line at all times.
5. When in groups on the highway, ride in single file.
6. Avoid traffic congestions and if you get in one walk with bicycle until you think it is safe to ride again.

Sacrificed Warship To Save Transport

Sails Deliberately Into the Path of Torpedo.

LONDON. — Under the heading "This Was Their Sacrifice" the Evening Standard published the story of a destroyer which sailed into the path of a U-boat's torpedo in order to save a troopship bringing hundreds of Royal Air Force pilots, observers and navigators to Britain from Canada.

The destroyer and all but seven of her crew of more than 100 were lost. But the troopship, with her valuable cargo of airmen, each of whom had had at least a year's flying in British and United States army schools and in Canada, sailed safely into a Scottish port.

"A fast liner of some 15,000 tons sailed from a Canadian port for Scotland," the Standard said.

"She sailed with a destroyer and corvette escort—sailed safely until she ran into the U-boat danger zone. Then the alarm bells shrilled. A submarine had been sighted.

"The U-boat fired a torpedo. It missed. It fired another. That also missed. A second later it fired a third torpedo.

"This one was on the mark, heading for the belly of the ship.

"What happened next is told by one of the liner's crew.

"The destroyer, he said, came between the torpedoes and the liner. There was a terrific explosion as the torpedo tore into the destroyer's plates.

"And when the smoke cleared, watchers on the liner saw nothing except a patch of oil and a few spars. It was a hundred sailors and an old destroyer in exchange for a thousand pilots and a fast liner.

"That liner had to sail on. It could not pause to pick up survivors while a submarine still lurked. Only seven men were saved."

Pitcairn Island Gets Tons of Unwanted Food

SAN FRANCISCO. — Some one sent 27 tons of food to Pitcairn island, but it left the islanders somewhat bewildered. In the first place they were not starving. In the second place the cargo was sent collect.

The story was told in a letter received here by Mrs. Kethryn Greenwood from Miss Lucy Christian, a direct descendant of Fletcher Christian, leader of the mutiny on the Bounty.

The food arrived on a freighter from Fiji. Miss Christian related. The islanders spent an entire day taking the food by small boat from the ship to shore, a distance of 2½ miles.

When all was ashore, the captain presented his bill. Pitcairn's residents couldn't pay, so they placed the food in storage. Much of it will spoil. Included were 200 sacks of wheat, which cannot be kept long in the muggy climate. There was almost no sweetstuff, which the islanders want most.

Brownings Busy With New Guns

Family Famous for Century For the Manufacture of Automatic Firearms.

OGDEN, UTAH.—The Brownings, whose famous machine guns and automatic rifles helped win the First World war, are hard at work in their shops here on improved weapons to win this war.

They are the oldest gun-smithing family in the country, going back more than a century.

There were Browning guns in the Spanish-American war, and in the Boxer rebellion. They went with Pezzy and Theodore Roosevelt on their exploring and hunting expedition. Since 1911 the .45 automatic pistol pioneered by Browning has been the army's and the navy's basic type of sidearm.

It is more than possible that the first historic occasion when Browning guns cracked out was the Indian rests in Nauvoo, Ill., in 1844, in which Joseph Smith and his brother were killed.

The first gun Browning, Jonathan, learned the craft in the Kentucky mountains, and as early as 1831 had designed and forged by hand a repeating rifle. He moved West and was making guns in Nauvoo in the 1840s.

Sets Up Shop in West.

From there he went to Kanesville, Iowa, near the present Council Bluffs.

With the Mormon pioneers, Browning moved westward and set up shop in a little shack on a back street in Ogden, where in 1855 was born his son, John, a genius with weapons and a titan in firearm history.

Before he was 14, John whittled a rifle breech mechanism out of scraps of wood. At 19 he fashioned a successful gun of his own design out of odd parts and junk metal. For his brother Matthew he made a gun which his expert father declared to be the finest weapon on the frontier.

At 24, John took out his first patent, on the mechanism which became famous as the single-shot lever-action Winchester.

When Father Browning died, the boys developed the business. Soon they sold the Winchester Arms company 600 rifles and John Browning's patent on a lever-action repeating rifle, marketed as the Winchester '66. Many of them are still in use, and nearly every improved repeating rifle has been based on the Browning mechanism.

Many Developments.

Among his dozens of other developments were the '90 model Winchester, for years the most popular .22; a hammerless .22, the "Ironside model," manufactured in Belgium up to this war; the 820 Stevens, the first hammerless repeating shotgun; and an automatic pistol, which astonished the firearms world and won him the Belgian Order of Leopold and the Franklin institute's John Scott Legacy medal, and which was the forerunner of the present .45.

Out hunting in the Great Salt Lake marshes in the fall of 1892, Browning noticed that after every shot the reeds about him were violently agitated by the discharged powder gases, and he hurried back to his laboratory to develop a use for this surplus energy.

The result was the first gas-operated firearm in history.

Another outgrowth was the recoil-operated machine gun, patented in 1901 and standard for years. By the end of the First World war, there were 40,000 Browning machine guns in France, widely acclaimed by U. S. army officers for their simplicity, sturdiness and effectiveness. Browning also developed synchronized aircraft guns, to fire between whirling propeller blades.

Browning died in 1926. Today the business, the J. M. and M. S. Browning company, is being run by his son, Val, and several other members of the family.
